MORGENTHAU PROTECTS LIFE

The American Ambassador Works Day and Night to Prevent a Massacre

EDITOR'S NOTE. — Henry Wood, manager of the Rome bureau of the United Press, is the first American newspaperman to get into Constantinople and gather first hand information of conditions there since Turkey has been involved in the war. Owing to the rigors of the Turkish censorship, the confiscation of mail and documents on the person of people leaving Turkish territory, Mr. Woods was forced to go to Salonica personally to write and dispatch his story.

BY HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
SALONICA, via London, Dec. 3.

Delayed. — Turkey is a mine. A spark of fanaticism, likely to be struck at any moment, would cause an explosion which would shatter all elements of Europeanism in the country. Foreigners are constantly murdered. Only superhuman day and night efforts by American Ambassador Morgenthau has prevented an international crisis. Morgenthau now represents eight nations.

Constantinople is practically isolated. There is only one line of rigidly censored telegraphic communication. Every letter and paper is confiscated. Foreigners are fleeing as from the plague. The border towns are filled with anxious men who dare not step on Turkish soil to rescue their workmen.

Can Have Only $50
Refugees are only permitted to take $50 in gold with them. If they carry more than this amount, the authorities confiscate it and give in return the depreciated Turkish paper. At Ledschatch there are 2,000 European refugees financially unable to proceed.

The day I left Constantinople the government was permitting the departure of only foreign women and children and holding all men who might bear arms. They are threatening to imprison these men in the concentration camps. Ambassador Morgenthau is fighting this position. Two thousand Europeans still remain in Turkey. Their condition is miserable.

When the Turkish fury against Europeanism first broke, Morgenthau stood alone between foreigners and Turkish reprisals. Before he could act all European hotels, stores, factories, banks and schools had been seized. So far as can be known, he has prevented violence to individuals.

Turks Break Pledges
The Turks' word is not to be trusted. Scores of times the authorities have promised non-interference with the departure of trains loaded with European refugees. Every time the police have held up the trains. The refugees complained to the ambassador. He hurried to the ministry and obtained safe conducts. The government apologized. Then the next day, the same thing would happen. Morgenthau's only answer from the Turkish authorities would be that they "forgot their promises."

On the occasion of one of these incidents which I personally noted, the high government official to which Morgenthau protested replied: "We cannot understand your solicitude."

GERMANS STRAIGHTEN OUT LINE

Have Fifty Mile Solid Front with Base Resting on Kalisz and Thorn

BERLIN, Via Wireless to London, Dec. 7.—Claims that the Germans have occupied Lodz and further reports of an important success in this region are included in official war office statements today: "We have gained an important success in the long battle around Lodz by the defeat of the Russians to the northwest and southwest of the town," it is asserted.

"Lodz is now in our possession. Details are not yet possible, owing to the extent of the battlefield. The Russian losses are no doubt large. The attempt of the Russians to assist the army in the north from southern Poland was foiled by the Austrian and German troops south of Piotrkow."

Germans Get Railroads
LONDON, Dec. 7.—With Lodz taken and advances of twenty-five miles made on both flanks, the Germans in Poland are gaining control of the main railroads leading direct to Warsaw. They are also threatening the communications of the Russians on the southern front of Grand Duke Nicholas' army. Should they continue to meet with success the Russian movement toward Czenstochowa will have to be abandoned and the forces about Cracow may be forced to withdraw.

This is the situation today on the eastern front as indicated by the German announcement and the mention of fighting on both the northern and southern flanks in reports from Russian sources. The Germans have advanced along the Vistula and fighting is reported to the north of Lodz and in the vicinity of Piotrkow to the south. Both of these towns are on the railroad lines leading to Warsaw.

Business Is Good

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—David R. Forgan, president of the National City bank of Chicago, declares that the year is ending with the financial situation much stronger than appeared possible four months ago. He says there is much to encourage the belief that the country will see better business in 1915.

In a circular to patrons the bank president's utterances are optimistic. In practically every direction he states improvement, with every indication that the recovery will be sustained.

Finance Tangle Ending

"Slowly but surely the financial interests of this country are extricating themselves from the complications which developed soon after the European war began," the letter reads. "The banks are fast retiring their clearing house loan certificates and the emergency currency issued under the Aldrich-Vreeland act. Both these processes will be expedited by the new facilities afforded through the operation of the federal reserve banks."

ALLIES LINE IS ON OFFENSIVE IN EVERY DISTRICT

Determined Advance Is Reported by the French from the Coast to the Argonne

ACCEPTED AS EXPECTED MOVE

Allies Reported Attacking Trenches of Germans on Left Bank of Yser

PARIS, Dec. 7.—A determined offensive is now being pressed by the allies from the coast to the Argonne. The official communique issued from the war office today declares advances are being gained over the enemy.

"The allies continue attacking the few remaining trenches held by the enemy on the left bank in the Yser region," the statement declares.

"The French heavy artillery yesterday obtained the advantage in the champagne district."

The development of the offensive of the allies, extending across northern France, as reported today, is accepted as the general forward movement which has been expected. An offensive of such extent has not before been officially reported.

The official statement says: "About Armentieres and Arras, progress has been made. In these regions as well as in the region of the Aisne and in the Argonne, the French offensive has shown the greatest superiority over the enemy."

LA CROSSE ELKS IN MEMORIAL FOR ABSENT BROTHERS

PEACE IN UNIVERSAL BROTHERHOOD

Europe Is the Example Declares Rev. Geo. R. Longbrake; Thompson Pays Tribute to the Dead

SPLENDID MUSICAL PROGRAM GIVEN

Local Talent Appears; Mrs. Anna Hickisch Howland Fails to Sing, Ill at Her Home Here

With a beautiful tribute to "Our Absent Brothers" by Attorney James Thompson and a plea for the establishment of a universal brotherhood, by Rev. George R. Longbrake, chairman of the local lodge and of the grand lodge of Wisconsin, members of La Crosse Lodge No. 300, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, participated in the annual memorial services held in St. Paul's Universalist church, Eighth and Cass streets, Sunday afternoon.

The services were impressive and a musical program, such as has seldom been produced here, was a part of the ceremony.

In Memory of the Dead

"We are gathered together in the memory of the dead sleeping in the bosom of our common mother," said Attorney James Thompson. "It is fitting that we meditate, not only upon their departure, but upon the lives that they lived and the love and the friendship and the companionship which made their memory dear."

"Life, though natural, is a mystery. We come; we wander about, and we go. Death, though likewise natural, is equally mysterious. It may come in the morning of life when childhood's innocence smiles like the glittering dew upon the budding flower. It may come at noon, when life's inspiring sun is high; or in the evening, after a long and busy life, when bent and weary, we rest our silvery heads upon the pillow of eternal sleep."

Death the Equalizer

"Life is a joy and a sorrow, a struggle and a calm—filled with hopes, aspirations, ambitions and longings, successes and failures, marked with a thousand inequalities—but all at last, finding a general plane in the 'Republic of the Dead'. There, at last, the rich and the poor, the general and the private, the emperor and the subject, the master

CARDS IDENTIFIED CROOKS "IN RIGHT"

"Chicago 'Squealer' Says Crooks Who Paid Protection Money Got Identification Cards

THIRTY POLICEMEN CAUGHT IN NET

Several "Higher-ups" in the Toils Before End Is the Prediction of State's Attorney

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Captain John J. Halpin, former chief of the Chicago detective department and now under indictment charged with accepting bribes from gangs of crooks and with collusion in confidence games, formally surrendered today and was released on $30,000 bond.

Shortly afterward, Lieutenant John H. Tobin, former assistant chief of the detective department, and Walter O'Brien, former detective sergeant, surrendered in court and furnished bonds of $15,000. They were under indictment on charges of collusion in the operation of a confidence game.

The rumor spread about the criminal court building that this afternoon that the December grand jury which met today will vote a string of indictments that will make the accusation of Halpin, Tobin and O'Brien seem insignificant by contrast. State's Attorney Hoyne it was reported, had been besieged by offers of confessions in return for promises of immunity.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Thirty members of the Chicago police department, including several "higher ups" may be under indictment before the present grand jury investigation of alleged graft and rottenness is concluded, States Attorney Hoyne announced today.

Four new indictments are to be returned today, Hoyne announced, based on the confession already given the grand jury by Barney Bertsche, convicted head of a gang of clairvoyant swindlers, and "Professors" Frank and Jimmy Ryan, clairvoyants. The December grand jury met today to hear the confession of Clarence E. Class, ex-pugilist and alleged promoter of fake prize fights, and the latest "squealer" to turn state's evidence, according to Hoyne.

Class produced a sample of the card of identification given to crooks who paid protection money promptly and therefore were "in right" with the police.

Captain John J. Halpin, former chief of the detective department; Lieut. John H. Tobin and former Detective Sergeant Walter O'Brien, who were indicted Saturday, announced that they would surrender themselves in court today and give bond. All three asserted that they had "been jobbed by a bunch of crooks."

COLORADO COAL WAR WILL BE CALLED OFF DECIDE UNION HEADS

Striking Miners Will Return to Work Under Pres. Wilson's Suggested Three Year Peace Plan.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 7.—The Colorado coal strike will be declared off tomorrow morning.

After a conference with the international executive officers of the United Mine Workers of America, President John McLennan of District No. 15 of that organization, at noon today announced that a resolution would be offered to the special convention of the Colorado miners here in effect taking such action.

The resolution will set forth that the Colorado strikers will return to work under the terms of the three year peace plan outlined by President Wilson some time ago, and will demand that the Seth Low mediation committee recently named by the chief executive enforce the terms of the peace plan.

McLennan said the officials expect the delegates from the various local unions of the district to vote to go back to work under the terms of the plan. He declared the tent colonies established by the union a year ago, will not be broken up at once, but that all the persons in those colonies will be taken care of by the international union until such time as they are otherwise provided for. This action was decided upon by the miners' officials, because of demands made on the national organization by the Ohio strikers who are facing a fight similar to that which has been waged in this state.

Officials of the United Mine Workers were reluctant to discuss the proposed action in advance of the presentation of the resolution to the convention. One of them indicated the resolution would not specifically call off the strike but would, in effect, have that result.

If the national administration does not compel the operators to accept the three year truce plan, it was said, the burden would be up to the administration.

What will be done if the three year truce is not enforced was not discussed by the miners' officials.

Nobody at the headquarters of the operating companies would discuss the proposed action of the miners.

VILLA DECLARES HE AND ZAPATA ARE IN HARMONY

Will Work Together Like Brothers According to Statement of Northern Leader

TWO LEADERS MEET AT LAST

ZAPATA WILL ACCEPT GUTIERREZ

Abandons Opposition to Convention Plans According to General Villa

EL PASO, Texas, Dec. 7.—"Gen. Zapata and I will work together like brothers to crush the scoundrels. General Zapata has agreed to submit to the convention and to assist me in pushing an energetic campaign against the convention's enemies. He is willing to agree to the presidency of General Ubaldo Gutierrez."

This was the statement made today by General Francisco Villa, following the joint entry of Mexico City Sunday by himself and Gen. Emiliano Zapata.

Accompanied by the Generals composing the convention of the Gutierrez administration the two Mexican leaders established headquarters in the capital. Several thousand troops escorted them and cheering citizens marked their way.

The announcement that Zapata will accept Gutierrez has led to the belief that Gutierrez election will be ratified by the convention without opposition.

WEATHER

Temperatures yesterday:

These conditions will continue in this section tonight and Tuesday and rain or snow may be expected with moderate temperature.

IMMORAL PLACES TO BE FURNISHED CHIEF J. B. WEBBER

Senator Teasdale to Comply with Request of Local Officer for Information on "Resorts"

EXPLAIN TERM "IMMORAL PLACES"

Vice Prober Says Wineries, Rooming Houses and Hotels, Lax in Methods, Make Up List

SORENSEN RILED OVER STATEMENT

Says to His Knowledge There Are No Wineries or Resorts in City; Forty-nine When Running

Police Chief John B. Webber today asked Senator Howard Teasdale, Sparta, Wis., chairman of the legislative vice investigating committee, for the addresses of the fifty-one immoral resorts in La Crosse, mentioned in the report of the committee, filed with Secretary of State John S. Donald, Saturday.

The request of the police chief will be granted immediately, according to Senator Teasdale, and any police or prosecuting officer in the state may have the information in the hands of the committee upon request.

"If the statement of the committee is true—that there are fifty-one immoral places in the city of La Crosse—I want to know where they are. If the committee has 'the goods' immediate action will be taken to put them out of business," said Chief Webber.

"I am for law enforcement, always have been and always will be," said District Attorney D. S. Law today. "If the committee gives us sufficient information upon which to work we will go after the places."

The request of Chief Webber for "the goods" followed the filing of the committee's report in which it was claimed that fifty-one immoral places existed here.

The assertion in the report caused a storm of protest from Mayor Orlin J. Sorensen, who gave out an interview claiming that when he took office there were fifteen or sixteen such places but that they had all been closed up "without any brass band or fuss." During his campaign for office Mr. Sorensen alleged that he had the names and addresses of forty-nine "places" which he would close up if elected. If defeated, his campaign literature said, he would destroy the list.

Senator Teasdale today explained that by the term "immoral places" it was not meant that there are operating in La Crosse fifty-one open red light houses.

"By that we mean hotels where couples have no difficulty getting rooms, wine rooms, saloons with sleeping rooms near at hand and the like. Local officials may rant and cry against the report of the committee. We have the goods. Primarily we are a body instructed to investigate with a view of drawing future legislation, we are not prosecutors. However, if any officials want the facts we will furnish them."

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

SWEETS—AND SUZANNE

BY DOROTHY DOUGLAS

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Suzanne, enveloped in an apron, stood over the gas range stirring fudge. "It seems such an odd thing to send to the army," she said to her mother.

"Chocolate is very nourishing and sustaining, dear," replied Mrs. Adams. "The boys can carry it along with them on a march and, when they feel hungry or fatigued, eat a piece without stopping. Don't you see?"

Suzanne nodded. "Oh, I'm more than willing to make it, and since the call for it has been sent out I'm sure it is required; but it seemed an odd thing, at first, to be making for soldier boys."

"And yet more adapted to your particular talents than the knitting of socks or making of nightshirts," Mrs. Adams added, wisely.

Suzanne laughed, a merry, rippling laugh that would have been as much of a sustainer to the soldier boys on the long march as a bit of fudge could they have heard it. "Right, oh, mother!" she said, slantly.

And then she went on with her candy making, thinking and wondering as she stirred where and by whom it would be eaten. Girl-like she wove romances about it, and as she sat in the window "fudging" it after it had cooled for the required number of moments she began to see more of romance than practical good in it.

Finally it was "fudged" to the proper consistency and she spread it on a flat dish, smoothing it with her spoon as it fell, rather reluctantly, from the pan. Good fudge always leaves the pan reluctantly. This is one of the tests of its having been "fudged" sufficiently.

"I wonder if any of the boys will get a whole box, by any chance," she said to herself. "I wonder."

When it was smooth she set it away on the ice, and in ten minutes she took it off and began to mark it off in generous squares. It was then that she put into action the little idea that had budded in her brain as she stood making the candy. She traced her name on the flat surface of the candy so that it looked like a puzzle when marked into squares. She carved her name and the village in which she lived very plainly and then she placed the dish back on the ice.

It took Suzanne some time to find a box in which she could lay the cake of fudge flat, for it was a large cake. She did not want to spoil the design she had made so carefully. Her cheeks were glowing with the thought of romance as she tied it up and addressed it to the woman who was looking after the sending of sweets to the troops at war.

Not a day passed in which she did not think of the silly thing she had done, and yet even at the end of a month she hoped that she might hear from her candy some way—somehow.

When a trainload of wounded soldier boys arrived at the big city, of which her home was a suburb, Suzanne was anxious to join the volunteer workers who were to care for the soldier laddies.

"I am not a trained nurse, but I could help," she told her mother.

"All right, dear," her mother said. "It is a noble work and you have my permission to go—so long as you go chaperoned by Mrs. Greene."

Mrs. Greene was a matron of the community who was going to help with the nursing of boys who had been brought home, and she had offered to take Suzanne with her.

It fell to Suzanne's lot to be sent to the home of a soldier boy whose mother was an invalid. At his home she was to assist in taking care of him, and from the young man she learned much of the life of soldiers in battle.

"But we had much to be thankful for," the wounded soldier told her one day when she sat by his invalid chair, which was drawn out on to the sunny porch beside that of his mother. "We had wonderful Red Cross service. We were not left to suffer on the field, but were given the best and quickest of attention at all times and sent home to mend up. And here—" he smiled into the girl's eyes—"you can see for yourself what we have when we get home, the flower of the land to care for us. Isn't it so, mother?"

The mother nodded and tears stood in her eyes. "You have indeed, my boy, the flower of the land," she added.

Suzanne hung her head, tears blinding her for a moment. It was difficult to realize that such trifles as it had been her good fortune to be able to do could be so deeply appreciated.

"And the good people all over the country even saw to it that we had candy—chocolate sweets—on our marches. It was great!" the boy said.

"Did—did you have any fudge?" Suzanne asked timidly.

"Fudge? The best ever and one of the fellows in our regiment has gone clean daffy over some girl who sent a box with her name written all over it. He pined it together, taking our candy out of our very mouths almost—the soldier laughed—and managed to make out her name and where she lives. He swears if he lives he's going to find that girl, and—well, you know how such things always turn out."

Suzanne had turned a brilliant scarlet, but neither the soldier nor his mother seemed to notice it. "What a silly thing for a girl to do," she managed to say.

"Plumb silly—yes, but I guess she makes up for it by being a good-hearted girl or she never would have made the fudge at all."

Little by little, after that, Suzanne discovered what regiment the soldier was fighting in—the boy who had eaten her candy. She learned that his name was Robert Moore and that he lived in the city in which she was now nursing his comrade. Something told her she would learn more of him, and the thought made her happy.

When her charge was well enough to be about she left him, but not before she had promised his mother to go each summer that she lived to visit her at their cottage by the sea. The old lady said that she owed her a tremendous debt and insisted on paying it partly in this way.

It was three summers later that she went down to the cottage at the invitation of the old lady and her ex-soldier son to spend a fortnight. The war was over, but war times and war days were still the topic of conversation.

"Mr. Henry," Suzanne asked of the boy she had nursed, "did you ever hear again of your comrade who ate the girl's fudge and was bound to win her. Did he ever find her?"

"Funny! He's coming here tonight to spend the night with three other fellows, and you can ask him."

A New Cure For Rupture.

Without The Use of Trusses.

At the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, in Buffalo, N. Y., for the past ten years have been performed the most wonderful cures of rupture and false rupture and with a greater uniform success than at any other hospital in the country. The Staff of Physicians and Surgeons at the Invalids' Hotel have made radical cures in over 5,000 cases, and this without ill effects in any case. A remarkable record is this, when you consider that with very few exceptions patients are able to be out of bed the day following treatment and have since remained cured. The treatment is painless and safe. Neither ether nor chloroform is used. The average case requires but ten days' stay in the Institution. After leaving the Institute a bandage is worn for a month or so, until all swelling has disappeared, after which time the bandage or truss may be permanently removed.

There is no safety in depending upon a truss of any kind. Every man who has suffered the agonies of a strangulated hernia undoubtedly thought himself safe until the very hour of death. Both the rupture and the truss keep up a mental strain, and induce nervous debility and various organic weaknesses of the kidneys, bladder and associated organs. There is no longer any need of wearing these clumsy, awkward, chafing old trusses that, at best, give only a partial relief, but never cure; often inflicting great injury, and inducing inflammation and strangulation, from which many die annually.

If any one should doubt the above statement, they have only to write the Institute, and they will receive a pamphlet, giving the names of a number of people to whom they can write and verify the statement. A chronic disease which may baffle the skill of the general practitioner may yet be permanently cured by the physician who has made one line of disease a specialty. It would be just as absurd for a professor in a medical college to lecture on all subjects as for the one physician to presume to understand the nature and cure of every disease.

That is why Dr. R. V. Pierce established the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, with a full staff of Physicians and Surgeons—who though educated to practice in all departments of medicine are here assigned to a special department only—to which each specialist devotes his entire time, study and attention.

There are over one hundred diseases of the kidneys. Each disease requires special treatment, diet and hygiene. No one remedy can cure all these various diseases, and that is why the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y., has had such great success in curing kidney disease in its various phases.

The Physicians and Surgeons employed in this completely equipped Sanatorium are among the most experienced and skillful in the country, men who have made these diseases their life study, and whose highest ambition is to excel in their treatment. How well they have succeeded may be judged from the fact that their practice embraces cases from every state and territory of the Union, as well as from foreign lands. Many thousands are annually treated either through correspondence or at this Institution, founded by Dr. R. V. Pierce many years ago. It is an old adage that "Experience makes perfect," and the skilled specialist in this field of practice cures thousands of cases which have been abandoned as incurable by general practitioners.

A chemical and microscopical test of the water from the human body will tell whether the kidneys are in good health or not. These tests of health are conducted by expert physicians and chemists every day at this Institution. Such examinations are made without charge. All you have to do is to send a sample by express to the Invalids' Hotel, at the same time write a letter and you will promptly receive the result of the analysis and this absolutely without charge.

This remedial home as established by Dr. Pierce is supplied with every known apparatus and means of cure, for its aim is to avoid surgical operations whenever possible.

Great care is exercised not to over-encourage those who consult the specialists of this Institution that no false hopes may be raised.

Many thousands are annually treated both through correspondence and at this Institution. Every one consulting by letter or in person receives the most careful and considerate attention. All communications are treated as strictly confidential. No charge whatever is made for consultation.

It all seemed so natural when Suzanne shook hands with Robert Moore—so much as if it had meant to be.

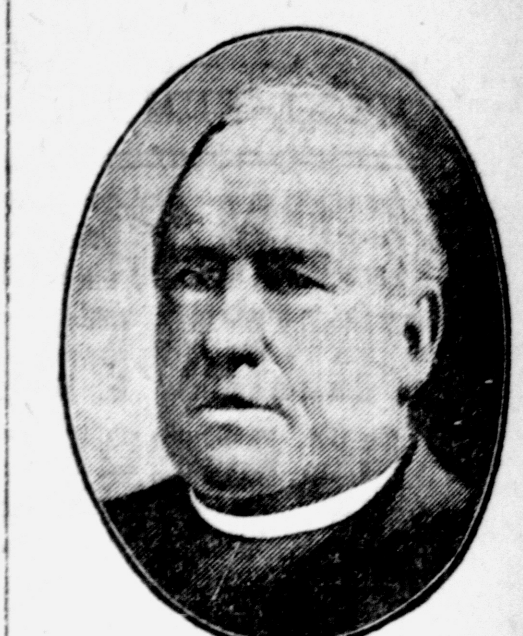

"Suzanne Adams," he said. Suzanne—it's not an ordinary name and I've been searching for it."

"Why so?" asked the girl, blushing furiously.

"Because she made some fudge and wrote her name upon it to give me hope through many a long march, that's why, and you know it. Later on I'll tell you more," he said, darily. "Will you listen?"

Suzanne choked with emotion and could not answer, but she knew that she would listen—that she had been waiting for three years to listen.

THE NERVES AND THEIR NEEDS

We do not give much thought to our nervous system when it is working all right but when it goes wrong nature has a way of calling it forcibly to our attention by something that we cannot overlook—pain.

Try to reach a painful nerve with medicine of any sort and you are confronted with a fact that every doctor knows, that the only way to reach the nerves is through the blood.

You see now why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the great tonic for the blood, are also a great nerve builder. When a nerve becomes inflamed and painful it is—unless caused by an accident—because the blood was not giving it the elements of nourishment it needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood, the nerves are strengthened, the inflammation subsides and the pain vanishes. By keeping the blood rich and red by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the danger of nervous breakdown, insomnia, nervous indigestion and other disorders caused by ill-nourished nerves is greatly lessened. In children the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills banishes the fear of St. Vitus' dance.

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., will send free on request a good little book on Nervous Disorders. Write for it today. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

“BROODING FOLLY”It is hardly lacking in gallantry to cry “Bonehead!” at Pethick-Lawrence, the English suffragist who Saturday urged Washington women to “adopt militancy” as a means of “promoting international peace.”
Perhaps the idea is to keep the men
so busy at home that they can’t fight abroad. Militancy, like David Harem’s fleas for the canine that “kept ‘im from broodin’ on bein’ a dog.” Suffering suffrage! Will it ever be protected from its fool
friends?THE SINS OF
THE FATHERSThe war in Europe is costing England five million dollars a day. Probably it is costing Germany more than that, in proportion to the greater number of men she has in the field. The other powers involved are paying the piper in the same ratio.Belgium and Serbia are already bankrupt. England has advanced them funds to continue the war.
France, Germany, England and Russia have all floated enormous loans,
to be expended on their titanic spree
of destruction.Four months of war have wan-toned away the fruits of years of peaceful thrift. Each day that the war continues adds to the size of the dead horse for which Europe’s people must pay when peace comes.The carnage of the fighting is appalling, but it is, in the long run, notthe worst evil. In fact, leaving the emotional and human consideration
out of the argument, it is possible to construct a brief for war as a benefit to the survivors.If a thousand of a community of fifteen thousand workers are eliminated, the fourteen thousand remaining become more valuable to themselves, through the increased demand
for their services.That is an argument with flaws,
for it takes no account of the destruction of property and resources which accompanies war nor of the drain upon the best stock of the nation involved. It serves, however,
to illustrate the unpleasant economic
fact that the life of an individual,
or the lives of several thousand individuals, are not of great account except to themselves. War’s subtraction from the population is made up in the next generation.It is not the loss of life which causes the smoke of battle so terribly to blacken Europe’s future.
It is the crushing poverty to which it condemns generation after generation to come. Europe’s peasantry, just beginning to lift their heads above the animal drudgery to which the debts of past wars had doomed
them, must resume their plodding,
hopeless existence under a fresh
burden of taxes.SHE ADDED THAT SHE IS “PRIMITIVE”Mrs. Carl Precocious, the “soul dancer”, sends her corset to the rummage sale, accompanying her renunciation with the declaration that it “hinders free expression”. The distinguished terpsichorean artist
says she wants “to be an idea, not a personality”, and to “speak
through movement”.Another phrasing of the thought that “every little movement has a meaning all its own”, concerning which Mrs. Precocious’ claim to originality may be questioned by the shade of the late Sam T. Jacks.
When the embodiment of ampler
years draws nigh our lady of the undulations may have a change of heart. Meantime, anent this latest depletion of her wardrobe the delighted audience will resignedly accept the situation with the complacent
philosophy that one may as well “let the tail go with the hide.”BLOWS MANY PEOPLE GOOD“It’s an ill wind,” etc. Mrs. Hope McElowney’s unfortunate experience in Chicago has become the means whereby the Chicago authorities are breaking up as fancy a brigade of police grafters as ever preyed upon women and credulous men.
The price was high for one woman to pay, and all society benefits. She should receive the reward for the apprehension of the crooks as partial compensation for the services rendered.VANISHING STYLESNow that everybody is well stocked with narrow skirts, Dame Fashion bans them in favor of the ampler garb. ‘Tis a bit of frivolity that well might have been avoided until society had done its duty to a war-famed world. There is a helpful cynicism in the comment of the husband whose better half pointed out in the evening paper a picture of a gown she intended to purchase.“It’s out of style, my dear. That’s last night’s paper.”Without a majority to give impetus to his projectiles, Uncle Joe Cannon is likely to prove a pop-gun in the next house.Something funny is occurring in Mexico—two generals are supporting rival candidates for the presidency and there is no talk of battle.It took a war to spread progressivism to Russia; the дума is considering an income tax.If the war lasts three years, as Kitchener predicts, there won’t be anyone left to pay the taxes.Quips and Cranks

Pretty Good World

This world’s a pretty good sort of world.

Taking it altogether.

In spite of the grief and sorrow we meet.

In spite of the gloomy weather,

There are friends to love and hopes to cheer.

And plenty of compensation.

For every ache for those who make
The best of the situation.There are quiet nooks for lovers of books.

With nature in happy union;

There are cool retreats from the noontide heatWhere souls may have sweet communion;And if there’s a spot where the sun shines not.

There’s always a lamp to light it.

And if there’s a wrong, we know ere long

That heaven above will right it.

So it’s not for us to make a fuss

Because of life’s sad mischances.

Nor to wear ourselves out to bring about

A change in our circumstances.

For this world’s a pretty good sort of world.And He to whom we are debtor Appoints our place, and supplies the grace

To help us make it better.

What You Can’t Do

You can lead a horse to water, but you cannot make him drink; surround a fool with wisdom, but you cannot make him think. You show an ingrate kindness and get injured
for your pains. You can dress a dude in fashion, but you cannot give him brains. You can bring the rich
to justice, but it takes a lot of time.
While the poor man goes to prison,
the rich one pays the fine. If you study human nature, you’ll find freaks of every strain. Some you see excel in stature; others great with nerve or brain. You’ll find lots of faults to criticize—perhaps some traits to praise; but it’s just as Nature made us guys. That explains our funny ways. Don’t get too close to the buzz saw or tickle
a mule that’s tame. Don’t give advice to those in love or bet on another man’s game.

It Never Worked

Parishoner (to departing minister)—We’re all very sorry to lose
you, Mr. Foodie.Mr. Foodie (modestly)—Never mind, Mr. Toadie. I’ve no doubt you’ll get a better man next time.Parishoner—Ah, no, Mr. Foodie.
That’s just what the last minister said when he left.

The Golden Text Revised

Mrs. Ormond was very busy with several guests and little Austin was left to his father, who decided to take the boy to Sunday school. It was quite a little walk, and Mr. Ormond endeavored to improve the time by teaching Austin the golden text, the words of which were “Whatsoever
a man soweth, that shall he also reap.”
Austin repeated it obediently afterhis father several times, and seemed to have mastered the correct wording.During the Sunday school exercises the teacher turned to Austin and said:“Now, let me hear if you can say the golden text.”Mr. Ormond, who was seated near by, heard the question and listened attentively to his son’s answer. Austin hesitated for a moment and then answered:“Whatsoever a man sews always rips.”

Hard to Down

The village board of strategy had
the old codger entirely surrounded
and were charging him from all sides,
and as a result the veteran was in a state of hectic savagery.“You will at least acknowledge,
squire,” sarcastically said Sanford Merton, “that a sieve has holes in it.”“Yes,” snarled the venerable curmudgeon; “but not so gosh darned
many as there might be!”—Judge.DRESS WARM AND KEEP FEET DRYTells Rheumatism Sufferers
to Take Salts and Get Rid of Uric Acid.Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible,
avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin
are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly,
cold weather the skin pores are closed,
thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating
and circulating through the system,
eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness
and pain called rheumatism.At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless
and is made from the acid of grapes
and lemon juice, combined with lithia
and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.ARGENTINA ENVOY

By Frederic S. Isham

Copyright, 1913. The Robb-Merrill Co.The girl gazed mechanically down into the street before the house. “A message pertaining to the morrow.”
What interest could it, or the messenger, have for her? Vaguely in the dim light she discerned the figure of a horseman. His mount seemed nervous and struck impatiently at the stones with his hoofs,
so that she saw a spark or two fly.
The man, also, showed impatience
and knocked again in more peremptory fashion, whereupon the sleepy bowwab, grunting about
people who came at unseasonly hours,
opened the gate. The horseman thrust out an arm; the light from the lattice fell on it and on something white which he held toward the displaced Abyssinian.“A message from Amad Ahl-Masr,” said the horseman gruffly.“To be delivered at once! Not an instant’s delay! My master says it is most important.”The bowwab answered in more respectful tones and took the message,
upon which the rider spoke to his horse, wheeled and dashed away.The girl watched him disappear, and the bowwab again locked the gate.
She could hear his shuffling steps crossing the court, then the rather noisy slap, slap of his slippers on the stairs. He had been aroused from slumber himself and he didn’t care
how many others of the sleeping household he disturbed. Light of Life awaited his coming at the head of the stairs.“From Amad-Ahl-Masr? Why should he be writing so late? Nothing has happened I trust,” the girl heard her say.Then slap, slap! The slippers were descending the stairs and the bow-wab returned to his hard bed of burlap near the gate. The girl as from a great, great distance, now caught the crackling of paper in the adjoining room. Then silence followed. Silence of considerable duration. Light of Life had opened and was reading the message. Still the other felt not the slightest concern in its contents. She wished only to be left alone. But even this wish was not to be granted. There was a louder rustling in the next apartment, the door was thrown open and Light of Life again entered—
or this time, she fairly rushed in.
Something obviously had happened.
She held the message in her hand
and the paper shook, while consternation was written on her sallow and unprepossessing countenance.“Get ready to leave the house at once.”The girl looked at her. “Why at once?” she said.“Why? Read.” And Light of Life thrust the message before her.

The girl scanned it.

“Have just learned the Christian quarter will be fired tonight. As your house is near, the danger is great. Leave at once with your daughter for my residence. The wedding can take place here. I am making all arrangements for it and for the reception of yourselves and as many servants as you may choose
for your escort.”After this, a big blotch of red sealing-wax and the imprint of a great seal.“His seal,” murmured Light of Life. “Do I not know it? He keeps it in his big safe. But the postscript
—read that.”It expressed greater perturbation on the part of the writer:“In the name of Allah, lose not a moment.”“There! What do you think of that?” said Light of Life.“I think that he is old and nervous,” replied the girl scornfully.
“I don’t believe there is any danger.”“He is prudent, and in a position to know,” snapped the other.“If you are afraid, do you go and leave me.” The girl’s eyes lighted with a faint spark of hope, but Light of Life didn’t answer.The latter struck a gong; a woman servant appeared, and to her
the mistress of the house gave hurried orders in a voice which fear dominated. The servant listened attentively, bowed and went.Soon from below in the court
came the sound of horses’ hoofs.
Nags, donkeys and asses had been hurriedly pressed into service. Bundles were brought from the house

THE BIJOU

while servants jabbered; one or two swore. The great bowwab wasted many words; he was like a giant child superintending the details of this hurried departure.“Come,” now said Light of Life authoritatively to the girl. That tone meant “no nonsense!”“You will not go and leave me?”
suggested the other almost gently.“I have no fear of what may happen here.”“Will you come or—?” Light of Life’s tones became menacing. She would waste no more time.The shapely shoulders of the girl lifted. She knew she had no alternative. They would take her, willy-nilly. If she held back they would provide for her the lodg, or closed litter. The giant bowwab might, in that case, be her personal attendant.
She had no choice, indeed. She must go, or—her hand reached to her breast. Yet she delayed a little. She would start with them. Yes; she could do that. An enigmatic expression played around the sweet fresh lips. She felt distinctly—how distinctly!—something cold and hard against her warm young breast. She liked to feel it. It reassured her, and with a smile she followed the elder woman from the room.CHAPTER XV.
The Cavalcade.They rode forth, an imposing enough cavalcade, the girl at her stepmother’s side, well toward the front, not because she wished to ride
there, but because the other had indicated her desires in this regard.
The dusky bowwab commanded the outriders and was prepared to shout to any who might get in their way.But the street before them was fairly deserted. His mistress had selected a roundabout route, remote from the Christian quarter, in order to incur
no unnecessary risks. Gazing back, however, after they had galloped on some little distance, Light of Life
noted that a number of persons had arrived in the vicinity of the domicile they had so recently left. She could not make out the figures of these people—they were too far away—but she saw that they carried sheathes, or watchmen’s torches. Moreover the night breeze seemed to waft to her the sound of excited voices. That might be only perturbed fancy, but they had certainly stopped at, or near, her house. A dire conclusion. Light of Life’s nerves weren’t any too strong at the moment.These people might have come
there because it had been rumored that the girl’s own mother had been a Christian, and that she, the child,
when very young, had imbibed the foul heresies. The elder woman had been through one “holy massacre,”
and she knew that on the last memorable and terrible occasion, some non-Christians, had been too quickly dealt with by the frenzied devotees.
She gave, therefore, the order to make all haste. The sooner they were at the diamond merchant’s
home, the better.

JOSEPH TAUSCHE DIES EARLY TODAY

Veteran Stone Mason Responds to "Call" After Illness of Two Weeks

Joseph Tausche, aged 83, died at 5 o'clock this morning at his home 508 North Tenth street. Death came from old age after an illness of two months.

Engaged in the trade of stone masonry, Mr. Tausche had lived in La Crosse for forty-seven years, coming from Germany at the age of thirty-six years. His wife died five years ago.

Surviving are five children. They are Frank and Joseph Tausche, St. Paul, Minn.; Mrs. Otto Riek, Chicago, and Theresa and William Tausche of this city.

Funeral services will take place at 9 o'clock Thursday morning from St. Joseph's cathedral. Rev. Gerhard Sluyter will officiate. Interment will be made at the Catholic cemetery.

HORSETHIEF IS CAUGHT BY RITTER

"Thrilling Chase" Ends at Prairie du Sac; Had Traded Horse He Took from Hoeth

Gust Hellmich, former employee of George Hoeth, Shelby farmer, was arrested at Prairie du Sac last night by Deputy Sheriff George J. Ritter, charged with the theft of Hoeth's horse and a buggy from Fred Kramer, Hellmich had traded the horse with a farmer at Reedsburg. He was nearly a hundred miles from La Crosse when caught.

The capture resulted after three days' chasing by Ritter and continuous traveling by Hellmich, in his endeavor to get away from the law. Hellmich had run Hoeth's horse until it was fatigued, when he traded it. He admitted taking the animal and offered to show Ritter the man whom he traded with. Ritter is now at Reedsburg and will return to La Crosse with Hellmich tonight.

PALLBEARERS ARE OLD ASSOCIATES

Hon. John J. Durland Carried to Last Resting Place by Men He Knew Many Years

The funeral of John J. Durland, well known business man of the city and former assemblyman, who died early Thursday morning at his home, 1616 George street, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence and at 2:30 from the north Presbyterian church, Rev. Finch A. Clarke officiating.

The pallbearers selected for the funeral were men associated with Mr. Durland for many years in business and professional life, chief of whom was John P. Bird, former superintendent of schools, under whose regime Mr. Durland served on the board of education.

Simple services marked the interment in the mausoleum in Oak Grove cemetery.

TAKES TRIP INCOG OVER STRIKE ZONE

Chairman Frank P. Walsh of Committee on Industrial Relations Visits Ludlow Sunday

DENVER, Col., Dec. 7.—Chairman Frank P. Walsh of the United States commission on industrial relations, returned early today from a secret trip to the southern Colorado strike zone.

During his visit, he personally studied conditions, strikers, strike-breakers, officials and employees of the coal companies without the disadvantage of having any of them on the watch for him. He ate dinner of strikers' fare at the Ludlow tent colony and visited the coal camps of Primero, Savings, Delagua and Forbes without his identity becoming known.

At Ludlow Walsh went over every foot of the ground on which the fatal battle of Ludlow was fought last April. He talked to Mrs. Mary Petrucci, who lost three children in the "black hole of Ludlow," and to Mrs. Virginia Bartelotti, whose husband fell in the battle. Numerous strikers were interviewed.

When the strike probe was resumed today, it was expected that President Welborn of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company would resume the stand. Mrs. J. Borden Hardman, who was unable to attend the sessions of the hearing last week, arrived today.

A PIANO WITHOUT DURABILITY

is an expense without a return. Like a soap bubble it looks pretty only for a moment, then goes all to pieces. The pretty case may remain, the shiny varnish may not wear off, but the tone-broken, harsh, jangling, it makes a piano resemble a jaded barrel organ. An appalling number of such pianos are sold in this community. They are sold at enticingly low prices, but are dear at any figure. The only way to guard against such an unfortunate investment is to purchase a piano of recognized standing from a dealer whose methods are unquestionable.

Tone, touch and appearance are instantly demonstrable to the senses. The only test of durability is time and the only means of securing it are high grade materials and expert workmanship.

The Piano Firms I represent have stood the test of time, and are today unquestioned leaders.

FEDERAL BUDGET CUT FOUR MILLION

McAdoo Furnishes Estimates to Congress for Next Fiscal Year

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Merciless economy was applied to estimates furnished to congress today by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo for government expenses in the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1915. They total $1,090,775,134—about $4,000,000 less than in the present fiscal year.

Deducting for the postal service, payable from postal revenues, $793,419,970 was asked, as against $780,803,435 appropriated for 1915. Although this was a net increase, it was not comparable with some increases of other years.

The naval building program called for two battleships, six torpedo boat destroyers, one oiler and one gunboat at $7,575,000, estimated to begin work on all these new vessels next year, in addition to eight or more submarines—one of the sea-going type, the others of coast defense type, at $2,225,000, and armor and armament at $9,424,998. The total estimates were $147,764,086 and the army's $186,675,373.

Although the last congress extracted most of the "pork" from the rivers and harbor's bill, this year's estimates of the army engineers called for more than $53,000,000. Pensions, on the other hand, showed a remarkable decrease from $169,150,000 to $166,100,000.

More than $18,000,000 was asked for Panama canal, a decrease or nearly $4,000,000. In the newer branches of the government were included the following estimates: Federal trade commission, $530,000; board of mediation and conciliation, $50,000; commission on industrial relations, $40,000.

"TAKING A SHOT" AT PLAYMATES A COMMON PRACTICE AMONG BOYS

That "taking a shot" at their playmates is a common practice among boys playing in the bottom south of town was the information secured by the police following the shooting Saturday of Leonard Gerke, aged 11, 1512 South Seventh street.
Gerke told the police that a playmate, Fred Vinger, aged 14, 1305 South Sixth street, had sent a load from a 10 gauge shotgun after him because he refused to continue carrying wood to a shanty in the marsh.
One of the shots lodged in Gerke's ear.
"We're going to round up the boys who have been in the habit of haunting the lowlands armed with guns," said Captain Lawrence Dugan today, "and take away the guns. The shanties, which are nothing more than breeding places for devilment, will probably be destroyed."

and the servant, all meet upon a common level. Their enemies are forgot and friend and foe lie down together. There, after all, a universal brotherhood is formed.
"We come today to the memorial of our departed brethren in recognition of those fraternal ties which, in life, bound us together within the circle of our order—ties of friendship and of love which death itself was not strong enough to sunder. Life may be fleeting but love is eternal. We came today to do honor to the memory of our departed, not as an idle ceremony, but in commemoration and in eulogy of those traits of character which made their lives immortal.

Best of Man Not Purse
"We measure men, not by the size of their purses or the texture of their garments, for in these respects it is not given to men to reach equality; but we measure men in accord with the precepts of true Elkindom, by the nature and character of their actions, by the humanity of their hearts and by the nobility of their minds. In these respects and on these impartial bases, no barrier blocks the way to perfect equality.

"We belong to a great and living brotherhood. When death calls an Elk away, we meet to mourn him as a brother and speak words of kindness in his memory. On such occasions no thought of wrongs, no thought of imperfections—the good alone pervades the air and from the hearts of all alike there issue forth a thousand blessings.

Remember Good Deeds
"So we today, in solemn memorial gathered, remember the deeds of kindness shown by our departed in their lifetime. In recognition of their manhood, their character, their benevolence, and in gratitude for the immortal memories which they by their lives generously and unconsciously bequeathed as an eternal legacy unto us, we today unite our thoughts and our hearts in memorial of their lives and the good that they have done. May their memories become nearer and dearer and may the jewels of their character reflect and added luster as we meet from year to year and may we ever call them OUR brethren."

500,000 Bow Heads
Rev. Longbrake spoke in part as follows:
"It is in accordance with a sacred rule of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks that we are again assembled at this annual session. Throughout the length and breadth of the United States, in every city where there is a lodge of this order, which now numbers about 500,000 members, a memorial service similar to this is conducted on the first Sunday of each December.

"On the memorial scroll you see the names of men whom this city and community may recall with just pride. Among the things shall have been said and done at this time the first and underlying purpose is to tear aside, if possible, the mysterious veil of death that hangs between them and us. An Elk is never forgotten, never forsaken. One of the foremost lessons which we are taught as Elks is to keep green in our memory their virtues.

Primary Purpose
"And yet while we must not and do not forget this primary purpose, yet this annual memorial service reminds us also of our duties and obligations to the here and the now. Even at this hour we must bear in mind that 'postmortem' kindness helps to cheer no burdened soul.

"Let us candidly ask ourselves why we are here, and what we are for as an Order? Certainly, on a day like this, you and I as members of this great and growing fraternity cannot help but think of such questions. More than that, our friends, here gathered with us, want an answer to those questions. And with just pride we are glad for the opportunity to explain.

Order is Serious
"In the first place, however, I would correct a certain unjust and erroneous opinion which prevails to a greater or less extent as to the purpose of the Elks' fraternity. By far too many people seem to think that it exists chiefly for jollity and for having a 'good time'. As a matter of fact we do include pleasure—good, wholesome pleasure, among our fraternal activities and benefits. Indeed we find that that is one of the very best ways of being helpful to each other and also to others who are not Elks. Not for a moment is it necessary to 'apologize' for any good, clean pleasure we foster in this stern, hard old world.

Place for Solemn Things
"But wholly aside from this rather inadequate explanation, we need only to point out that this Annual Memorial Service is full evidence that the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks reserves a large place for the very deepest and most solemn things of life. The very name of the order signifies much in this connection. Take the first two words, 'benevolent' and 'protective'. It is privilege to tell you that those words are golden keys to some of the loftiest principles that men are anywhere known to exemplify.

"The four central and cardinal principles which we are guided by as Elks, and which we cherish for ourselves and for the good of others, are as you observe, Charity, Justice, Brotherly Love and Fidelity. Can you think of or name any other principles that are more sorely needed in human affairs today? It would be a joyous task to speak at length on each one of those principles and tell you how great value we put upon them, but I feel that time does not and will not permit. I assure you that they are most splendidly and impressively exemplified in the secret work of our ritual. Though we may fall far short from their high standard, yet the spirit of our fellowship aims at making nothing less than the ideal type of manhood those words principles inspire.

Build Brotherhood
"We are here to build Brotherhood into the social structure of humanity, and the kind of Brotherhood that the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks cherishes and teaches. As you look with clear vision over the earth today, you will agree with me that there is nothing else that is so greatly needed for the happiness and welfare of mankind as the full-orbed spirit of Brotherly Love to be actualized on earth.

Europe an Example
"For a proof of this statement we need only to look to Europe. If the third principle which we have set before you, Brotherly Love could some-

LOCAL HUNTERS TO MEET TONIGHT

Members of Fish and Game Association to Express Views on Season for Game

To determine whether La Crosse hunters are in favor of a closed season for deer in Wisconsin; the best means for procuring a fish hatchery here and to arrange a date for their annual venison banquet, the La Crosse County Hunting and Fishing association will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the court house.

The federal commission of fish hatcheries has been asked to enlarge the work being done here by the U. S. steamer Curlew on the North side, and to establish a hatchery which will remain in operation the year round.

Members will discuss the proposed plan of Milwaukee hunters to place a closed season on deer.

"I am not sure how the proposition appeals to members of the association," said Dr. A. T. Rasmussen today, "but I believe they will try to do it."

Officers for the ensuing year will also be elected tonight.

BANKRUPT FILES HERE

J. A. Breitenbach, Blum County Creamery has filed a petition in bankruptcy in United States district court here. His liabilities are $1,500.67, with assets of $1,200. The matter has been referred to C. L. Baldwin, referee in bankruptcy.

GERMAN SUBMARINE HURT

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 7.—The German submarine U-16 has arrived at Esbjerg badly damaged. The cause of the vessel's injury is not known.

how have taken the place of the hatred and petty jealousies existing between those warring rulers and their misled peoples, that terrible conflict and carnage would have been averted.

"A universal inquiry is going on all over the thinking world today: 'What has broken down in our boasted Twentieth century civilization?' Well, let us see. For the past generation or two we have had it laid down repeatedly in more or less an axiom not to be gainsaid, that great, huge, death-dealing engines and instruments of war are the 'surest guarantees' of peace, prosperity, and security for nations. Now we are witnessing what a black lie it is. The theory has completely broken down, utterly failed to 'make good.' Still again, some of the biggest and brainiest business men of the wide world, who have earnestly hoped for, and zealously worked for world peace and international unity, have pinned their faith to the 'supremacy' and 'sufficiency' of commerce. But, it so happens that the two greatest commercial nations of the world, at any rate of Europe, are also the two greatest haters of each other of the several countries involved in that war. So, we may safely declare that commercialism, also, has completely broken down and utterly failed as being able to maintain international unity.

Brotherly Love Solution
"It comes to this, then: It remains for man to learn what 'Love to Man' or 'Brotherhood' can do. But does someone say, 'Yes, but even Brotherhood, like the church and religion, has broken down in Europe?' Then, I am here to reply, to say deliberately, that the fact is, Brotherhood, even like the church and religion, has never been really tried in Europe. These forces have always been pushed to the background. They have always been compelled to give way to militarism, commercialism and to the selfish struggle for money.

Leader in World
"In view of all this, Brother Elks, I would have you and me keenly realize that the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, as one of the great Brotherhoods in the world has a very important part to play in the world's work of social reconstruction. You and the world about you have scarcely taken time as yet to practice our ideals. The world is hardly more than on the edge of the practice and realization of Brotherhood so far. The very best and biggest thing, positively, that we, or anyone else can do in this life, is to live, and to practice, and to spread abroad our cherished principle of Brotherly Love.

"At this hour of tender memorial, resolve to make the world know that we ourselves consider it an 'honor' to be an Elk, only so far as a member tries, really tries, to be true to our oath and to our sworn obligations—true to Charity, Justice, Brotherly Love and Fidelity."

Anna Hickisch Absent
Mrs. Anna Hickisch Howland, soprano, was unable to appear. Vocal solos by Burt Miner, Mrs. Grace McLinden Bartl and John L. Utermoehl and violin solos by Mr. Glen Hallik served to complete a splendid musical program. Several numbers were rendered by the male quartette composed of Otto Zielke, first tenor; Burt Miner, second tenor; Emil Neimeyer, baritone, and J. L. Utermoehl, basso.

LA CROSSE BOY MAKES GOOD IN THE U. S. NAVY

Walter D. Snyder Appointed Ensign According to Word Received by Parents Here

HAD NO ACADEMIC TRAINING

Rise in Naval World Due to Close Application and Seizing of Opportunities Offered

PRODUCT OF LA CROSSE SCHOOLS

Graduated from Local High School; Worked for Time as Apprentice at Burlington Shops

Walter D. Snyder, aged 29, has been commissioned ensign in the United States navy.

This was the word received today by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Snyder, 1508 Wood street.

Enlisting as a common recruit in 1907 the rise of the La Crosse boy has been remarkable.

The rapidity of his advancement from machinist's mate to commissioned officer is in itself proof that the opportunities in the navy, advertised in tri-colored posters by Uncle Sam, are not alone on the bulletin boards in front of recruiting stations.

With no academic training Mr. Snyder has gone from the bottom of the commission awarded those who, graduates of high schools, universities and Annapolis receive.

Enlisted in 1907
The local boy entered the United States navy as machinist's mate, second class, on September 13, 1907, and within a year was examined for warrant. On December 31, 1908, he received his appointment as machinist. During his enlisted service he was gun pointer on board the U. S. S. "Perry" in 1908 when that vessel won the naval "E", the highest mark for expert gunnaship.

Since then he has served on the "Independence", "West Virginia", "Tennessee", and at the navy yards Philadelphia and Portsmouth, N. H., and more recently at the naval observatory, Washington.

Studied Here
He is the product of La Crosse public schools and of the high school. For a time he attended the George Washington University at Washington, D. C., under an Admiral Powell scholarship and is at present a student at that institution.

For a time he was a mechanic's apprentice at the Grand Crossing shops of the Burlington railroad.

He is a member of the Engineering society, of the Alpha Beta Phi college fraternity, the Masons and the Elks.

He was born at Oskaloosa, Ia., December 21, 1885 and for several years he was the youngest warrant officer in the United States navy.

"His rise has been remarkable," said the "Fleet Review," a publication devoted to naval affairs.

DROPS DEAD UPON RETURN FROM MASS

Michael Kenney Stricken While Wife Is Preparing Family Meal; Aged Resident Called

Returning from late mass at St. Mary's Catholic church at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Michael Kenney, aged 76, 1018 Pine street, died suddenly from heart disease as his wife was preparing dinner. Mr. Kenney had been in the house but ten minutes when his wife heard him gasp and saw him fall to the floor. He had been in the best of health.

Mr. Kenney was born in Ireland and came to America in 1853. He settled in La Crosse. Until a few years ago he was engaged in the teaming business.

Surviving are the widow and two children, Mrs. P. Humber and F. A. Kenney.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning from St. Mary's church. Rev. Robert B. Congdon will officiate. Interment will be made at the Catholic cemetery.

LIE PASSED BY "BOB" LA FOLLETTE

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 7.—Senator La Follette today delivered a broadside in his magazine to a Milwaukee press service and the metropolitan newspapers of the country which handled a story on November 1, while he was campaigning in the state, declaring that at Stevens Point he became so excited that he "leaped from the platform into the crowd and was so excited that his secretary, John J. Hannan, stopped his address."

"It is maliciously false in every syllable and sentence," declares the senator in characterizing the dispatch, which he reprints.

GEHARD MEINERS DEAD

Gerhard Meiners, aged 78, a retired farmer residing at Eitzen, Ia., died at a local hotel yesterday afternoon. Diabetes was the cause. The body body has been taken to Eitzen, where the funeral services and burial will take place tomorrow.

FURSTMAN DENIES TYPHOID EPIDEMIC

Health Commissioner Issues Statement Proving that There Are Only Five Cases Recorded Here

WATER SUPPLY NOT TO BLAME

Analysis Shows That It Is Pure and Healthful and Could Not Have Caused Sickness of Five

J. M. Furstman, health commissioner, today issued a statement to the effect that rumors of a typhoid epidemic in La Crosse are utterly without foundation. The statement, the commissioner explained, was issued to dispel an opinion among many that our water supply is to blame.

The statement follows:

Only Five Cases
"There are up to noon today five cases of typhoid fever in this city which have been reported by physicians and hospitals. The names of these are: Miss Normand, now at the Lutheran hospital, who is a nurse and came here from Fargo, N. D., where she was treating cases of typhoid. She contracted the disease in Fargo. Mr. White, now at the La Crosse hospital, who had been living and working on the river and admits having drank river water; came here to the hospital with a pronounced case of typhoid. Mr. Jessie Higbee, now at La Crosse hospital, Police Officer H. F. Rick, at his home, 1413 Johnson street. The fifth case not yet certainly diagnosed as typhoid, is also at the La Crosse hospital, Mr. Ellis Langdon.

Interviews Doctors
"I have this day communicated directly with every physician who could be reached in the city. All have made direct statements that they have no cases of typhoid except as stated above. The state law requires that all cases of infectious and communicable diseases must be reported to this office within twenty-four hours. Typhoid fever heads the list of such diseases. Any citizen knowing of any case of typhoid not listed in this report will confer a favor on this department by telling us where it is.

"An analysis of the city water supply was made both before and after flushing of the water mains, and is made every month by the State Hygienic Laboratory at Madison. The city water could not be better. The only chance of contracting typhoid from water in this city is from well water.

"J. M. FURSTMAN."

STORM LOSS ON COAST MILLION

Atlantic Seaboard from Norfolk to Maine Lashed by Gale Which Does Vast Damage

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The entire seaboard from Norfolk to Maine is being lashed today by a gale that at some points has attained the velocity of seventy miles an hour. The storm has been blowing from the northeast for more than forty-eight hours. Shipping at many points has been completely paralyzed. Many vessels which put out before the blow began are unreported and much anxiety is felt for their safety.

At many points along the Jersey coast and on both shores of Long Island sound, cottages near the sea front have been undermined or are being pounded to pieces. Scores of bath houses have been swept to sea.

It is estimated the damage will amount to a million dollars or more. Part of the board walk at Atlantic City early today was carried away. The $20,000 ball room on the end of the steel pier is threatened.

FIND LOST LIGHTSHIP

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 7.—The radio station here reports that the Nantucket Shoals Lightship No. 85 was located at 9:30 today, thirty-six miles west northwest of Nantucket Shoals station.

The annual cut of British Columbia timber is approximately two billion feet. There are 420 mills and 790 logging camps in the province, employing about 60,000 men.

The Gift that Pleases Every Man

is a glass humidor of famous Tuxedo tobacco. Last Christmas thousands of men received this appropriate, delightful, sensible gift—this year the number will be greatly increased. Give him a humidor of Tuxedo. It will last him for weeks—in his office or by his fireside—and each cool, mellow, fragrant whiff will recall you to him in pleased and thankful reverie.

Tuxedo can be smoked all day long without the slightest irritation to the smoker's throat, as is proved by the endorsement of Tuxedo by men like Caruso, William Faversham, Harry Lauder, and thousands of famous Americans in professional, public and business life.

Tuxedo, made from highest grade Burley tobacco, has the advantage—over other tobaccos—of the exclusive original "Tuxedo Process," which absolutely prevents "tongue-bite." The Humidor Jar keeps it fresh and moist to the last pipeful.

AUTO THIEVES IN KICKAPOO VALLEY

Organized Gang Supposed to Be at Work; Several Attempts Made

SPARTA, Wis., Dec. 7.—(Special.)—That an organized gang of automobile thieves is working in the Kickapoo valley is the opinion of a number of people who live in that vicinity, and there is some grounds for this belief. Some time ago the automobile of Justice V. A. Stoddard

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Now, days, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

Painless To You

Mr. Charles A. Hunt, proprietor of the Hotel La Crosse, has this to say: Dr. Waterson has done all kinds of Dental work for myself and family for the past 20 years and always without a particle of pain. PETTERSON FAVORS KEELER AND BUCK

Critic of Collier's Weekly Picks Wisconsin Men on First Team; Stavrum on Second

Two Wisconsin men, namely our own "Tubby" Keeler, and his running mate, the great "Cub" Buck, have been named by E. C. Patterson of Collier's Weekly on his first all-western team. Eddie Stavrum he places at end on his second team. Keeler, however, is placed at his old position at guard by Patterson away from the place at tackle that he played all season.

Mr. Patterson says: "Buck, with Keeler, practically did the work of all six men in the Wisconsin line. He (Buck) was above any tackle in the west, both in offensive and defensive play. He played at loose center on defense, where he was able to range widely and show his speed."

Patterson's selection follows:
First Team
Graves, Illinois End
Halligan, Nebraska Tackle
Keeler, Wisconsin Guard
Des Jardien, Chicago Center
Routh, Purdue Guard
Buck, Wisconsin Tackle
Cherry, Ohio End
Clerk, Illinois Quarterback
Maulbetsch, Michigan Halfback
Pogue, Illinois Halfback
Solon, Minnesota Fullback
Second Team
Huntington, Chicago End
Kirk, Iowa Tackle
Chapman, Illinois Guard
Kosenthal, Minnesota Center
Stegeman, Chicago Guard
Townley, Minnesota Tackle
Stavrum, Wisconsin End
Russell, Chicago Quarterback
Hamilton, Minnesota Halfback
Macomber, Illinois Halfback
O'Brien, Purdue Fullback

MORNINGSTAR QUILTS BILLIARD LEAGUE

Leader of Champion Aggregation Forfeits Leadership on Account of Wife's Illness

Ora Morningstar, who is leading the Champion Billiard Players' league by a good margin, has resigned from the league because of the illness of his wife. He has sacrificed an almost certain chance to capture the big end of the prizes hung up by the league in order that he may take Mrs. Morningstar to Arizona where she will have a chance to regain her health. He will soon leave for the southwest with Mrs. Morningstar and their baby son.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Bradley and Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Bradley of Bancor motored to Sparta Friday afternoon.

NOTRE DAME MAY PLAY MICHIGAN

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 7.—Notre Dame may be one of the big home games on the Michigan football schedule next fall, while Cornell and Syracuse are the other probable major attractions on the Ivy field. The only trips which the Wolverines will take next fall are to Philadelphia, and probably to Cambridge.

KILBANE FIGHTS MANDOT

AKRON, Ohio, Dec. 7.—When Johnny Kilbane makes his debut as a lightweight here tonight against Joe Mandot, the featherweight champion will have his hands full, boxing experts agreed today.

Both men completed training yesterday in Cleveland and arrived here today. Both are in the pink of condition. Admission tickets to the twelve round bout were at a premium today. Betting is at even money.

GOOD CARDS IN GOTHAM

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—New York's sport card this week furnishes what should prove at least two good fights. Leach Cross meets Phil Bloom at the Brooklyn Broadway club tomorrow night and Sam McVey will meet Battling Johnson at the Fairmont Athletic club Thursday night. Jim Elliott and Joe Woods, heavyweights, will fight tonight at the Olympic.

J. KILBANE HAS AN IMPRESSIVE RECORD

Johnny Kilbane.

That Johnny Kilbane, who now desires to enter the lightweight ranks, is a fighter of class is proved by the fact that since he has been a featherweight champion he has dropped nine scrappers for the count. Among those he has thus humiliated are Jimmy Fox, Tommy Dixon, Ollie Kirk, Knockout Mars, Eddie O'Keefe and Eddie Moy.

TWO SPORT RULE EFFECTS DEMISE

Measure to Limit Activities to Two Sports Is Killed by "Big Nine" Leaders

Faculty representatives of the western conference universities rejected the two-sport rule at their annual meeting held Saturday in the Auditorium hotel. From the time the discussion on the question started it was apparent that there was no chance for the plan to go through, and when it was put to a formal vote the measure was defeated by a large majority. Although the list of those who voted against Professor Goodenough's plan was not given out, it is thought that Chicago, Iowa, Northwestern, Ohio State and Wisconsin were the principal opponents of the rule.

The suggestion of the athletic directors that all the conference schools be compelled to number their gridiron athletes was commended by the professors, but they did not take any positive action on the matter, leaving the decision, as in the case of the two-sport rule, to the individual judgment of the various college boards. Most of the colleges have already adopted the scheme, Minnesota now being the only Big Nine institution that did not use this means of identifying its players during the last gridiron season.
